The aim of the clinical diagnosis of the dysmetabolic syndrome (DMSP) is the detection of the five most common diseases that are considered to be precursor lesions of type 2 diabetes mellitus (DM): central obesity, insulin resistance, impaired glucose tolerance, hyperlipoproteinemia and hypertension. Therapy of DMSP with the aim of pre- or post-treatment of the individual disease components should be considered in accordance with the recommendations of the NCEP-ADPRM. Therapeutic recommendations for the prevention of cardiovascular diseases in DMSP patients are associated primarily with the prevention or delay in the progression of impaired glucose tolerance, hyperlipoproteinemia and hypertension. The individual therapeutic goal for the control of these diseases is the normalization of blood pressure. For the effective control of hyperlipoproteinemia, low-fat diet (with the restriction of saturated fatty acids and intake of polyunsaturated fatty acids) and cholesterol-lowering drugs should be used. The normalization of blood pressure and the treatment of lipid disorders are the cornerstones of the treatment of patients with DMSP. 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a polymerizable composition, an adhesive composition and a curable resin composition. More specifically, the present invention relates to a polymerizable composition that is particularly useful as a photo-setting resin composition, an adhesive composition that has excellent adhesion to other materials and also excellent releasability from the other materials at the time of curing, and a curable resin composition that has excellent mechanical properties. 2. Discussion of the Background Adhesives for use in bonding various materials, including glass, metal, ceramic, rock, plastic, wood and other nonmetal materials, to each other are well known. Particularly, from the viewpoint of environmental conservation, the bonding of resin materials having a high specific gravity such as glass to resins having a low specific gravity such as melamine-formaldehyde resin is of particular interest. Thus, a large number of methods have been proposed, and particularly, polymerizable compositions containing an oxetanyl group have been of particular interest
