Explosions in two oil refineries in Texas and Louisiana have killed at least five people and put four other people missing. Officials say it is the largest explosion in the US Gulf Coast in more than 30 years. The cause of the explosions remains unknown. UPDATE: At least one of the victims has died from burns, while a fourth victim was confirmed to be missing. The crude oil storage tanks exploded at the Arkema chemical plant in Crosby, Texas, releasing a cloud of thick, noxious smoke and dousing the Houston neighborhood. The explosion happened just hours before President Trump was to attend a campaign rally in nearby Corpus Christi. The second accident happened at the Motiva refinery in Breton Island, Louisiana. A blaze at the plant in response to the explosion damaged the adjacent Shell chemical plant. Following a meeting with local officials, the president said that "we are all thinking of the victims and families of the victims of the Texas fires." He went on to remind the Texans that the US "is here for you." Louisiana Governor John Bel

Edwards also offered his condolences on Twitter. "On behalf of the people of the state of Louisiana, we offer our deepest condolences to those affected by the large-scale explosion and fire at the Motiva refinery in Breton Island," he said. UPDATE: At least

Cracked grocy-desktop With Keygen is a GUI desktop frontend for the well known Grocy web-based application. You can use it to view all your tasks, add new ones, organize your shopping lists, and manage the whole life of your home all from the convenience of your computer. It is free software released under the GNU General Public License version 3. The House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee will hold a hearing today focusing on "border trade and cross-border infrastructure bottlenecks" on the U.S. southern border. At the hearing, House committee members will discuss what the lawmakers consider to be bottlenecks in border trade and what they consider to be the economic priorities of the U.S. Congress as it relates to the southern border of the United States. It is expected that the hearing will focus on current and future projects at the U.S.-Mexico border that would allow for more cross-border trade and traffic, but, to lawmakers in the committee, the main focus will be on the construction of a border wall. The hearing is expected to begin at 10 a.m. ET. Below is the list of witnesses, which includes members of the House committee and members of Congress from both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border: John Darcy, Assistant Secretary of the U.S. Department of Transportation Richard A. Boltz, Senior Policy Director for the Trans-Texas Corridor (TTC) Herbert C. Canales, President and CEO of CanalesUSA Joe A. Cenzone, President of the Arizona Chamber of Commerce and Industry Beto O'Rourke, former member of the Texas Senate Paula Corbin-Deery, Texas Department of Agriculture and Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts Roger D. Gifford, Director of the Office of Trade and Transportation Policy Michael McKenna, Director of the National Association of Port Authorities Mike Waters, Executive Director and CEO of Texas A&M University System Andrew R.
